Again, we remember

Elk Point and district residents turned out in large numbers to remember those who served their country in two World Wars, the Korean conflict and the Gulf War, with their tributes at the annual Remembrance Day service, November 11.

Representatives of the RCMP, Royal Canadian Legion, BPO Elks, OORP, Girl Guides, Pathfinders, Scouts, Cubs and Beavers and the Ukrainian Dance Club formed the color party led by Parade Marshall Cst. Dave Kilby, RCMP, which marched into the Seniors Recreation Centre to open the ceremony. A contingent of the Community Choir led the singing of O Canada. Pastor Jim MacLellan of Elk Point Baptist Church gave the invocation.

The Last Post sounded, and utter silence prevailed for two minutes, as all paused in reflection and remembrance. Reveille was followed by the Act of Remembrance, recited by Master of Ceremonies Sid Holthe.

Dorothea Naber read the famous poem, "In Flanders Fields," while Andrea Myshaniuk added an original poem, "Forever In Our Hearts." In the absence of Rev. Sam Donaldson, Pastor MacLellan offered a prayer.

Wreaths were placed by the Government of Canada, Province of Alberta, Town of Elk Point, County of St. Paul, Mary Kryvenchuk as the Silver Cross Mother, the Royal Canadian Legion, and a long list of groups, businesses and individuals until the cenotaph was almost totally obscured by the poppy-laden greenery.

Pastor MacLellan's benediction and blessing was followed by God Save The Queen, again led by the choir, to signal the end of that portion of the service. Placing of the colors was directed by the Sergeant-at-Arms. Wayne Palmer laid one final wreath, in memory of his late wife Irma and son Frank.

Tom McLennan, a member of the Royal Canadian Legion for half a century, was presented with a 50-year pin by Morris Cooper.

Legion President Louis Verhagen welcomed the crowd on behalf of the Legion, and said it was "very evident by the participation that this community does not forget." For this, he extended thanks on behalf of all veterans and their families, noting that "we who are left enjoy the fruits provided by the sacrifice" of those who died serving their country.

Mayor Ed Buck said that the defense of our democracy by the armed forces "gives us the right to speak out and to do things that we often take for granted." He urged all to remember those who fought that we might have these rights. Buck thanked the Legion for putting on the annual service and paid special recognition to Tom McLennan for his many years of membership.

Betty Way brought greetings on behalf of County of St. Paul Councillors Bob Smith and Ray Danyluk. She commended the Legion for their support of the community and especially for their role in support of local youth through their annual poster, poetry and essay contests.

MLA Paul Langevin spoke on behalf of the Province of Alberta, and noted that the occasion gave all pause "to remember, to appreciate, to thank the men and women of this community who served their country... for their dedication and sacrifice. Canada is what it is because of those who defended us."

Sergeant Pat Muzzeral, RCMP, spoke of "the eleventh hour of this day, 75 years ago, when soldiers lay down their weapons" as the First World War came to an end. Today,

Support for rezoning

Three residents of the area on the east side of 51 Street and north of Railway Avenue which is being considered for rezoning from C1 Central Commercial to R2 Residential Medium Density, attended last Monday's Public Hearing to speak in support of the proposal.

Margaret Scheer reiterated the reasons in her earlier letter to the Town, which noted that the area had been residential for many years, that

Canadians pay tribute to those who fought and died in that war and those which followed. Muzzeral noted that World War I "earned Canada its place among nations... with courage and conviction... as a stalwart force." He also remembered those who served in World War II, Korea and the Gulf War, and commented on the ceaseless work of the Canadian medical service, who served their fellow forces with skill and compassion. Now, he urged, "let us rededicate ourselves to peace, and to a democratic society... and rid ourselves of hate." Muzzeral finished with a touching original poem, entitled "Daddy's

Boy."

The Choir was joined by the audience in a hymn, "Once To Every Man and Nation."

Pastor MacLellan's Remembrance Day message was that "war teaches us much about ourselves." A former member of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, he took a story of the first World War from their annals. At one point in that conflict, the objective was a ridge that ran through Passchendale, and was separated from the PPCLI's position by bog and water. Major Talbot Papineau was quoted as saying to a comrade, "This is suicide," and for all but Talbot and 41 others, it was.

"What is it in us that we engage in suicidal activity for a cause?" MacLellan asked. "It is more than an animalistic, biological instinct... something in mankind makes us protect our own."

The survival of three teenagers in our own area recently "showed their innate ability to survive," he noted.

MacLellan mentioned the conscripted soldiers "who became profane, sceptical and irreverent, but enjoyed it because they thought they had to."

"What drives men and women beyond doing what they must to survive?" MacLellan feels it must be the sense of moral order which tells each of us what we must do, in other words, a moral conscience.

Other stories of war give us hope, he added, that we all have a sense of right and wrong, even those who do not believe. Self-sacrifice is proof of moral conscience.

The service ended with a prayer by Pastor MacLellan, after which everyone enjoyed a lunch provided by the Legion.

Rezoning

residents could not rebuild their homes in case of fire, and that building and repair regulations under the current zoning will not permit these small, older homes to be brought up to today's living standards. This makes it difficult for the area's aging population to sell their homes. "There hasn't been a commercial building on any of those lots in the past sixty years," she stated, adding that she feels there never will be sufficient demand to warrant the commercial district growing in that direction.

Doreen Younghans added that having the land zoned Commercial is a detriment to the town, because homeowners cannot make improvements. If these homes were improved, she noted, they would bring in more taxes.

Nick Bochon built his house, at the end of the area designated for rezoning, in 1959, and since that day, does not recall anyone inquiring about land in the area for commercial use. He added that he would not be concerned about having a business built beside him, if that should happen.

Council queried the residents on possible concerns, such as truck traffic in the lane behind their homes and future increases in taxes and assessments, but they felt the advantages would outweigh these.

One written submission was received which was against the rezoning, but did not give reasons for this view.

Council records show the area in question as being zoned Residential in both the 1975 and 1981 land use by-laws, and did not receive its C1 designation until the 1986 General Municipal Plan was developed.

Matthews nominated

North East Alberta Track Club's Joni Matthews is used to winning. But at the Athletics Alberta Awards night Saturday in Edmonton, she was delighted just to compete.

Matthews, 14, from Elk Point, was nominated as Athletics Alberta midget girls' Athlete of the Year. Matthews won the midget girls' national long jump championships Aug. 14 in Saskatoon and also established a provincial age-group record in the triple jump last year.

Though Nicole Chimpko won the athlete of the year honor Saturday, Matthews said she was thrilled to be there.

"I didn't win," Matthews said, "But it was fun -- just to see my friends again."

She said she was happy to be nominated, "especially since this was my first year in midget."

What's Happening at Community Services

How do you handle anger?

(Source: Roxy Thomas, Alberta Mental Health)

Family violence is something which exists in all communities and it is important to recognize that it is actually happening, and what we can do to prevent it.

Anger: this one five letter word can raise different reactions and feelings in all of us. We may get images of people "exploding," "blowing up," or becoming aggressive. We may also imagine someone "hiding" or "stuffing" their angry feelings and letting them build up inside them. Individuals feel differently about their anger depending on their past experience, education and how they prefer to resolve disagreements.

What is normal or healthy anger? Feeling angry can be a sign of many things. Some of these may be that, for example, our needs and wants are not being met, that we are not dealing with things which are bothering us, or that our values and beliefs are "under attack." Just as pain tells you that you must take your hand off a hot surface, feeling angry tells you that something is not quite right for you.

Our anger can be directed at others, at ourselves, or at "life" or general conditions around us. How different people might deal with anger is suggested in the following example. Three people, Sue, Larry and Ken, applied for a promotion in their company. Sue had worked really hard in her job, and was expecting the promotion. When someone else received the promotion, she became very angry at herself, blaming herself for not doing a good enough job. Larry became angry with a co-worker who received the promotion, because in Larry's eyes, that person was "lazy." Ken dealt with it by becoming angry with his supervisors and the world in general, for not recognizing the important educational upgrading he had just completed.

Most people can sense they are feeling angry, by physical changes in their body. This can include feeling hot or flushed, getting tense muscles, having faster heartbeat and breathing, feeling shaky or "seeing red."

Each person deals with their angry feelings differently. How do you handle disagreement? Do you use criticism? Sarcasm? Or do you blame others? Maybe you withdraw, hold in the feelings, or feel badly about yourself. Another person might use verbal put-downs, threaten, or try to control others. Perhaps you yell, throw things, break objects, or hit other people.

When a person becomes aggressive or abusive, it is a more serious problem.

The first step to learning to deal differently with anger is to accept that it is OK to feel angry. The feeling of anger is a normal reaction that everyone has. If there is a problem, it usually lies with how you cope with it and how you can express it.

So once you have admitted that you are feeling anger, can you figure out what you are angry about? If you feel angry at someone, then it makes sense to go to them about it. All the talk in the world with your best friend about your boss won't help you resolve a disagreement you have with your boss!

Let's say that at the time, you're just too upset to actually talk about it. You are fearful that you will blow it out of proportion or express it too strongly. These are the times we need to take a time out, like a walk, a bath, listening to the stereo, or anything else that will help you settle yourself. Other examples might be counting to ten backwards, taking deep breaths, or picturing yourself in a calm, relaxing place.

Once we feel more in control, then we can go back and talk about it.

Some people find that keeping track of their anger in a journal, diary or notebook is helpful. These notes can help you to identify the changes which happen in your body when you are angry, what the situation is about, and what skill you did use or could have used to deal with your anger.

The idea is for you to look more closely at what the actual cause of the anger was, to find any patterns or events that tend to trigger your anger, and to determine what coping skills work best for you.

For someone who has become abusive or violent, the problem runs much deeper than just learning how to control your anger. A change will be needed in unhealthy beliefs and value systems such as "it's OK to hit others," "I have the right to be in control of someone else," "they deserved it," "a man is supposed to be strong and aggressive," "it wasn't really that bad," "it's no one else's business but my own what goes on behind closed doors," and other similar beliefs that the individual may have that allows them to continue with their abusive ways.

Changing your pattern of dealing with anger is a process that is often helped when you have support. Therefore, working with a group of people with similar goals is often helpful.

Family violence is a concern for everyone. There are many different aspects to family violence, and anger management is only one of them. But for people to take the chance and make the effort to deal differently with their anger, is a step in the right direction.

Letter to the Editor

Hometown more hospitable

Dear Editor:

Living in Elk Point for 22 years, we always thought we were fortunate to have the small town friendliness and good service, and for a fact, we know we could walk into any of our restaurants and ask for a cup of coffee and we would be served. This was not the case in one Vegreville restaurant.

On Sunday, October 24, we enjoyed a beautiful morning drive from Muriel Lake into Vermilion, picked up our elderly parents who were celebrating their 55th Wedding Anniversary. Our destination was Edmonton. It was not a rare occasion that we would stop at this particular restaurant in Vegreville for a breakfast, lunch or supper, and today was no exception, but being only 10:20 a.m. none of our gang was hungry. We still decided, because it was coffee time, to stop and have a cup in our usual stop.

We walked in. There were definitely no signs telling us that coffee would not be served without a meal, after all, this restaurant chain is known as one of the best for coffee and fast food service. The place was fairly busy but there were a few empty tables and booths, there was no waiting line anywhere. The manager seated us in a booth, placed 4 menus and left. The waiter came, and I said "We would just like coffee, please." Well, the manager heard me, rushed over to our table and said "You should have told me." "Told you what?" I said. He said "We don't sit for just coffee." My husband said "What do we do, stand and drink our coffee?" The manager said "Well, OK, sit and drink your coffee quick."

We gulped our coffee, nearly choking from embarrassment. Nobody walked in while we were gulping our coffee, tables and booths still empty.

My husband and I approached the till with our money. The manager took our money, then started yelling at us about his side of the story, how he had to make a policy because people came and sat for 3 to 4 hours and drank coffee.

How my elderly parents and we looked like we were going to sit for 3 to 4 hours remains a mystery to us. To our knowledge, 10:20 a.m. is neither breakfast or lunch rush.

So that brings our thoughts to our friendly Elk Point restaurants. We definitely appreciate you and are glad we are far away from Vegreville and that restaurant.

Thank you,
Virginia and Emil Mudryk

Fair play for coaches and athletes

ATTENTION ALL COACHES!

Coaches and Youth Leaders: YOU are the key link in the chain for developing each athlete's skills and values.

FAIR PLAY CODE FOR COACHES

1. I will be reasonable when scheduling games and practices, remembering that young athletes have other interests and obligations.
2. I will teach my athletes to play fairly and to respect the rules, officials and opponents.
3. I will ensure that all athletes get equal instruction, support and playing time.
4. I will not ridicule or yell at my athletes for making mistakes or for performing poorly. I will remember that children play to have fun and must be encouraged to have confidence in themselves.

5. I will make sure the equipment and facilities are safe and match the athletes' ages and abilities.

6. I will remember that children need a coach they can respect. I will be generous with praise and set a good example.

7. I will obtain proper training and continue to upgrade my coaching skills.

Fair Play Code For Athletes

1. I will participate because I want to, not just because my parents or coaches want me to.

2. I will play by the rules, and in the spirit of the game.

3. I will control my temper, fighting and "mouthing off" can spoil the activity for everybody.

4. I will respect my opponents.

5. I will do my best to be a true team player.

6. I will remember that winning isn't everything, that having fun, improving skills, making friends and doing my best are also important.

7. I will acknowledge all good plays / performances, those of my team and of my opponents.

8. I will remember that coaches and officials are there to help me. I will accept their decisions and show them respect.

What is basic education?

(The following is reprinted from the ATA News, November 2, 1993 and was submitted by Phyllis Scott, BEd., a teacher in this area from 1946 to 1991 and still a substitute teacher.)

Basic education should provide students with the knowledge, skills and attitudes that will enable them to become productive members of society. It should promote self-reliance, self-discipline, and self-motivation. And it should produce a zeal for lifelong learning.

Those were some of the Emersonian definitions put forward by participants at the education roundtable in Calgary on October 15 and 16.

Only four of the eight discussion groups talked about programs that could be excluded from a basic education.

Within those groups, there was considerable support for retaining early childhood services and English as a second language as basic programs, moderate support for fine arts and physical education and less support for religious education and modern languages.

Education Minister Halvar Jonson described the discussions as a good beginning.

"I think there was a start on a definition of basic education in that I didn't hear anyone who didn't say that at the beginning of our definition of basic education must be the essential skills, the three Rs," he said. "I heard everyone say that we've got to start with quality education dealing with communication skills [reading, writing and speaking] with numeracy [and] with citizenship."

Tie, loss for Thunder

Ron Dunlop

Elk Point Thunder

After winning three in a row, the Thunder midgets tied and lost in action over the weekend.

Friday night, Wainwright was in town and from the opening faceoff, it was a fast paced, hard hitting game. Wainwright struck first with a power play goal at the half-way mark of the first period, but Kyle Sakowski tied it up four minutes later with assists from Jacques deMoissac and Travis Stafford. Wainwright went ahead 3-1 in the second with back to back goals by Jim Coleman. Thunder came back with a flurry and their hard work paid off. Kyle Lawrence made it 3-2 with 3 minutes left in the second with Kyle Sakowski drawing the lone assist. Robyn Moroziuk tied the game with 54 seconds remaining, assisted by Travis Stafford. In the third, Wainwright made it 4-3 but Robyn Moroziuk tied it up again with James Makowecki and Cody Lawrence assisting. Thunder had two goals disallowed for a man being in the goal crease and the referee missed one but that did not deter the efforts or dampen their spirits. They outworked the opposition but ran into some hot goaltending.

In the shootout, Brett Kopeck and James Purdy were the marksmen and Kyle Badger was in net. Once again the goalie won the battle. Kyle won a medium pizza from Dave's Pizza. Congratulations to Norm Quinney in the 'Shoot To Win' contest. Norm missed the net on his first shot but on the second, he put it dead centre through the 'Shoot To Win' board. Norm won the 20 inch color television.

On Saturday night, the team travelled to Vermilion to meet the first place team in the South division. In the first period, Thunder was totally dominated and the score was 6-0. Elk Point got it going in the second period but could only manage two goals, making it 6-2 after two. Vermilion scored two more late in the third for a final 8-2 score.

Elk Point's record now stands at 3 wins, 1 loss and 1 tie. Thunder's next home game is this Saturday, November 20 at 7 p.m. against the Kitscoty Pitbulls.

Capitols in fine form

Dwayne Yaremkevich

Elk Point Capitols

Elk Point IDA Capitols kicked off their Hi-Way 28 Atom schedule in fine form October 30 with a resounding 20-2 victory over the visiting Two Hills squad. Next it was off to St. Paul where the visiting Capitols again dominated and skated away with a 21-0 shutout victory.

The following week it was more of the same as the IDA Capitols were able to overcome a shaky start before cruising to an 18-2 victory in Bonnyville, November 13. The following day, goals didn't come quite so easily as the Capitols came crashing back to earth with a hard fought 6-5 loss to the visiting Dewberry team in exhibition action. The Dewberry squad plays in the Hi-Way 16 Atom "A" League, but the Capitols played them evenly until a late goal secured the win for Dewberry.

The Capitols next action goes this weekend with a pair of home contests, Saturday, November 20 against Glendon in league play and Sunday, November 21 versus the Bonnyville Rep team in an exhibition game. Starting time for both games is 1 p.m. Hope to see you there.

Elks down Kitscoty in season opener

Elk Point Elks started their 1993-94 Sask-Alta season with a win last Saturday, with a resounding road trip victory in Kitscoty.

Two first period goals by Sheldon Cardinal and one by Layne Gauchier, with assists by Blair Halfe, Rick Marcoux, Kerry Loughran, John Olson and Tyson Stafford, were answered by one Kitscoty goal.

This trend continued into the second period, where a third goal by Cardinal and a second by Gauchier, assisted by Jeff Buck and Marcoux, were answered by a single Kitscoty goal, and into the third, where Marcoux scored twice for the Elks and Blair Halfe added a single, off assists by Halfe, Buck, Marcoux and Cardinal, while Kitscoty scored their third and final goal of the game for a 8-3 final score.

The Elks have two home games this week, meeting Dewberry Mustangs tomorrow night and their former Centennial League rivals, the Bonnyville Pontiacs, Friday night. Both games are scheduled for an 8:15 p.m. start.

EVERYONE WELCOME!

LOSING TO WIN - These Elk Point Agricultural Society members, and four others, are more than willing to lose, so the Arena Operating Committee can gain. All thirteen have gathered pledges for every pound of weight they lose between now and April. What if they gain? Then THEY pay, and some of these people have as much as $40 a pound to lose, should the scales tip against their favor. From left to right are Ron Croteau, Ron Johnson, Ray Danyluk, Bernie Korpan, Al Pankiw, Dave Yake, Dave Cousins, Kevin Bjornstad and Phil Shankowski. Not shown are Ida Maksymec, Dwayne Moneta, Doug Flett and Ken Sakowsky. With Sakowsky yet to weigh in, the total weight stood at 3159 pounds. Watch for progress reports as these stalwart volunteers brace themselves for the temptations of the holiday season, and beyond!

One of life's great values.

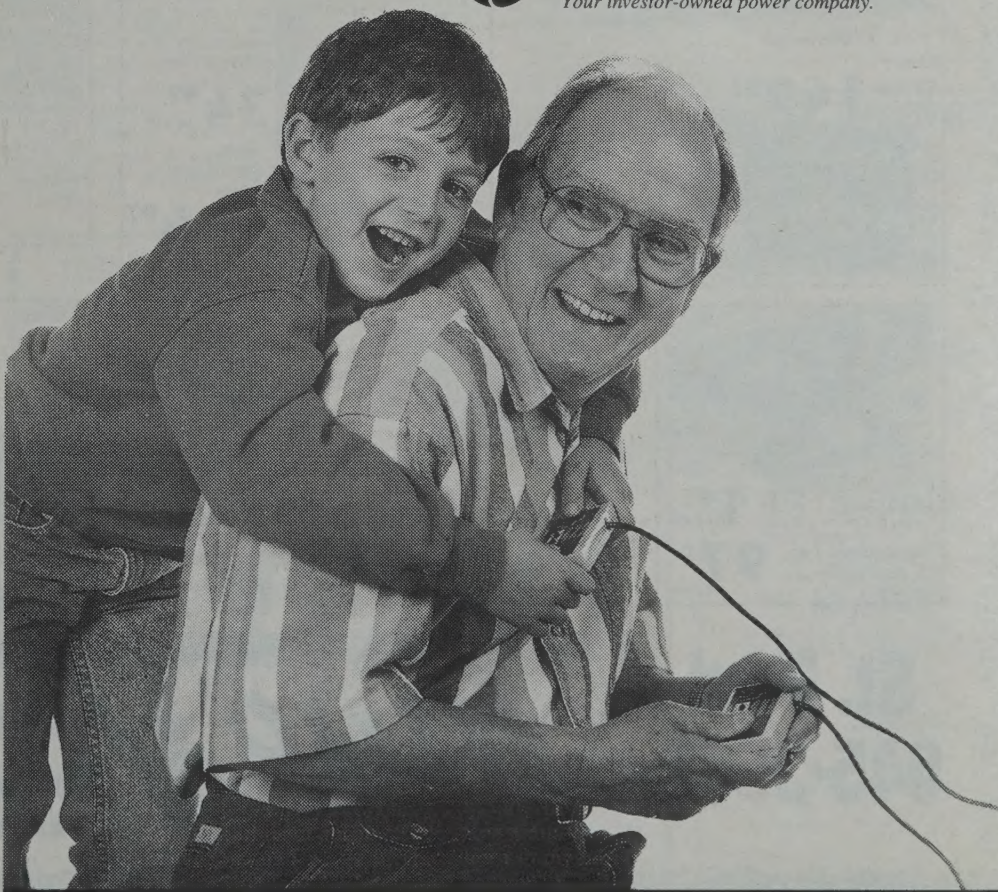

These days we take electricity, and all it can do, for granted. But it wasn't always that way. A lot of Albertans still remember what it was like in the "old days", when farm houses were lit by kerosene lamps and most housework was done without the help of dishwashers, clothes dryers and other electrical appliances.

Today, we rely on electricity to do everything from milking the cows to powering up our video games. And when you consider how affordable it is, hardworking electricity is still one of life's great values.

What's News at the Library

Sigmund Brouwer visits Elementary School

On Friday morning, November 5, Sigmund Brouwer, an Alberta author, visited the Elk Point Elementary School. Sigmund entertained a group of 163 children from grades 4, 5 and 6, teachers and guests. He read from some of his books, explained how long it took him to have his first book published and how he gets material for his books. It was a pleasure to listen and watch him as he interacted with his audience of young people. Devon Veenstra and Dean Stanley were the winners of the book draw donated by Northern Lights Library System. The author's visit was co-sponsored by Young Alberta Book Festival, Northern Lights Library System, Elk Point Elementary School and Elk Point Public Library.

The answer to last week's question, 'Who wrote the book Straight From the Heart' is our now Right Honourable Prime Minister Jean Chretien. His book was published in 1985 and is an autobiography of his life and early years in the political arena.

One of our services to the community is a large selection of large print books. The large print text is easier on the eyes, which makes reading more enjoyable.

For patrons who enjoy autobiographies, we have the following selection of books:

One More Time by Carol Burnett. She tells her childhood memories to her daughters with love and laughter.

All My Patients Are Under the Bed by Dr. Louis Camuti. These are the memoirs of a cat doctor. He writes with fondness about the myths and mystiques of "cat people" in particular.

How about a book called The Yodelling Cowboy by Wilf Carter? Wilf reveals the remarkable chain of events that led to his becoming one of the top singers of western ballads on the continent.

Here's a fascinating read by Charles Chaplin in his book, My Autobiography: Charles Chaplin. From his boyhood to the early free wheeling days of the movies, he tells about how he evolved his styles, his plots, his sudden success and his encounters with great movie stars.

Here's an incredible story of a woman's fight for survival in the wilderness in the book Silence of the North by Olive Fredrickson.

Just recently on TV the story of Betty Mahmoody in Not Without My Daughter was shown. Now come to the library and take out the book!

Tidbits

Most time is wasted, not in hours, but in minutes. A bucket with a small hole in the bottom gets just as empty as a bucket that is deliberately kicked over.

Thank You

PINDER

The family of the late DONALD EVERETT PINDER would like to thank relatives and friends for their help and kindness during the death of a dear husband, father and grandfather. We appreciate those who came from near and far for the memorial service. Thanks for all the delicious food, flowers, cards, visits, phone calls and your prayers. Thanks also to those who donated generously to the charities of our choice.

Special thanks to: David Kilby of the R.C.M.P.; ambulance drivers; the choir and organist; the honorary pallbearers; the ladies of the Seniors' centre for the lovely lunch.

Reverend Sam Donaldson, John and Carolyn Yewchin: your service and support will always be remembered.

The Pinder Family: Grace; Ken, Florence & Family; Gary, Marilyn & Family; Carol & Warren.

Elderhostel introduced

Shirley Osinchuk

Review Contributor

The Silver Trumpet sponsored Elderhostelers, Edna Jolly and Helen O'Reilly in Heinsburg and Elk Point on Tuesday, November 2. They were a wealth of information, and Elderhostel stories, with their video and slide presentation.

Elderhostel is a non-profit organization with branches on every continent except Antarctica. You live on campus, for a week, at a college, university, other educational institution, or in a national park, take up to three non-credit courses on a wide variety of subjects, taught by a faculty member, and have access to all the resources of the institution. There are no prerequisites for the courses, and no exams. You are there, learning, with lively people from all walks of life, and all levels of formal education.

International programs are two to four weeks in length, usually exploring some aspect of the host country's culture, history and natural features.

The only requirement is a desire for adventure, and to be 60 years old or better. If age is a problem, find someone who is 60 or more to take you as a companion.

The address to write or phone is: Elderhostel Canada, 308 Wellington Street, Kingston, Ontario K7K 7A7. Phone (617) 426-8056.

Heinsburg, AB., T0A 1X0

If you are an owner of land adjacent to the above, you may appeal the decision of approval or any condition of approval for this property. The appeal cannot deal with the proposed use of land as legally adopted by the municipality in its land use by-law.

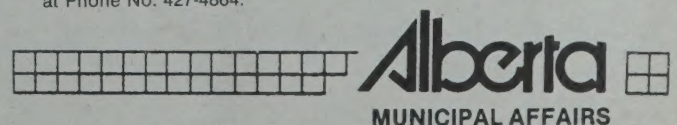

For this purpose, adjacent land means land which touches the parcel being subdivided, or which would be in contact with this parcel if it were not separated from it by a public roadway, river or stream.

A proper notice of appeal must be filed with both the Alberta Planning Board and the applicant within fourteen (14) days of the date of this publication. Such notice shall contain:

1. the legal description and municipal location of lands being subdivided,
2. the name and address of applicant,
3. the name and address of the appellant,
4. the reasons for appeal, and
5. the name and date of this publication.

For further information on Approval contact the Subdivision Support Unit, Alberta Municipal Affairs at Phone No. 427-2190.

For further information on Appeal contact the Alberta Planning Board at Phone No. 427-4864.

Heinsburg sees the styles

Shirley Osinchuk
Review Contributor

On Friday, November 5, the annual Heinsburg Community Club Fashion Show presented today's styles from Stedmans and Leigh Morgan in Elk Point, Deanna's Designs in Dewberry, and the St. Paul Co-Op. Models from age one to mature ladies demonstrated that everyone can look good in quality clothes bought in our own community. Another type of fashion, silk flowers and plants, was demonstrated by Gladys Marciniw from Lloydminster. The hall, tables and stage were 'alive' with her Totally Tropical plants and arrangements.

Stedmans' Sherry Ozust and Lois Sharek presented fashions by "Mr. K.," "That's It," and "Sugar Cane," among others, modelled by boys and girls as well as the female models. The clothing ranged from the casual but stylish denims to more dressy mix-and-match wear. This was the first indication of the popularity of vests this year.

Vocalists Dianna Sidner, Marmie Quinney and Daleen Gunderson entertained with popular country songs between fashion presentations. Karac Hendriks provided the background music.

The Leigh Morgan styles, introduced by Peggy Adomaitis and sold by Cathryn Lindquist in Elk Point also have good looking, comfortable clothing for children as well as women. Denims are favorites, and the buffalo plaids are very popular. From comfy and casual to comfortable but dressy, and introducing a washable rayon fabric and micro fibre, the fashions caught everyone's eye.

Midway through the show, there was an intermission and invitation to the buffet. The delicious food was welcome, as well as a chance to discuss the styles already shown.

Deanna's Designs in Dewberry is a home-based business, where Deanna Hendriks-West does custom sewing, repairs and her own designs. Her ingenuity was demonstrated in taking a ready-made denim jacket, and turning it into a fashion statement with antique silk on the collar and band, gold thread top stitching and gold buttons and ornaments. Her models were the ladies who had commissioned her designs. Deanna also teaches sewing classes to children and adults.

The final contributor to the fashion show was the Co-op Family Fashions in St. Paul. There too, children's wear is stylish, but comfortable and practical. Jeans and jackets were again in the spotlight, in many colors, styles and materials. Aztec print is popular for jackets, vests and embroidered on shirt yokes.

Overall the colors were in earth tones; teal, burgandy, grey-green, green, and lots of purple. Comfort was "in," as in waistbands with elastic at the back. Jackets and vests went together or separately, and slinky was available, in almost-black velvet. Skirts were mid-calf length, draped for a slimming effect.

Many door prizes from Heinsburg, Elk Point and St. Paul businesses were given away during the evening. The grand door prize was a set of gold jewellery from Parklane Jewellery, whose representative is Joyce Nychporuk. Karen Stafford was the lucky winner.

Joyce is to be congratulated on organizing the Fashion Show evening.

THE SWEATER SET - Looking good this winter is easy for the young crowd in sweaters such as were worn by these young fellows.

DRESS-UP TO DAYTIME - Fashions for all occasions were on display, from a slinky, high-slit sheath dress for holiday parties to cosy casual sweater and pant outfits for daytime and any time.

COUNTRY BEAT - Dianna Sidner was among the evening's entertainers, who pleased the crowd with their country style songs.

Heritage Lodge highlights

Tracy Kjenner
Elk Point Heritage Lodge

In the past few weeks, residents of Heritage Lodge have been busy preparing for the Annual Heritage Lodge Auxiliary Pre-Christmas Tea, Bazaar and Bake Sale. With this event now past (Nov. 6) a thank you is being extended to all those who supported this event. What a way to kick off the holiday season - with interesting crafts and great food. It was a joy to have others come for this event. Thank you all. Special thanks also go out to those who made donations for the various tables and who came that day to help with preparing the lunch and the sale tables.

Winners at the bazaar were: 50 / 50 Draw - Mary Derewynka; Food Hamper - Barbara Rozdziabik, Hooked Rug - Bryan Krawchuk, Gingerbread House - Amelia Bowen, Wreath - Ida Motow-ylo, Door Prize - Lawrence Modin.

As a reminder, the Heritage Lodge Auxiliary meeting will be held at the lodge on Wednesday, November 17, 1993 at 7:30 p.m. The Tea, Bazaar and Bake Sale reports will be made at that time. It would be great to see all our members out for the meeting as it could become a festive event following the meeting. Christmas is coming and decorating is a great way to get into the holiday spirit.

A Fashion Show and Sale will be held at Heritage Lodge on Saturday, November 27, 1993. Everywear Fashions will be at the lodge from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. The fashion show will begin at 1:30 p.m. Families and friends, please accept this as your invitation to attend this function.

Thanks also to the wonderful volunteers who bring the bingos, Tuesday music, and Baptist Church services to the lodge, and also to the special entertainers who were here November 1. Your efforts contribute a great deal to a happier, healthier lodge atmosphere. Thank you all!

Red Cross annual tea and bazaar

Members of the local Red Cross Society presided over tables filled with home baked goodies, home crafted items, white elephant articles and the tea tables. Thank you to all who attended and contributed. Proceeds from the event will be sent to the Red Cross Society.
